This architectural elevation shows a modern building facade with a mix of materials and colors. The building features a combination of dark grey, light grey, and white panels, along with large windows and balconies. The design is characterized by sharp angles and a mix of textures, including wood paneling and brickwork at the base. The building is set against a dark background, and the ground in front is a textured, dark grey surface.

This architectural elevation drawing shows a modern building facade. The structure is composed of several interconnected volumes. On the left, a section with a steep gabled roof features a dark, textured facade and three levels of windows, each with a white crisscross balcony railing. The central part of the building is a white, rectangular volume with three large, dark-framed windows, each also featuring a white crisscross balcony railing. To the right of this central volume is a smaller, two-story red volume with a white crisscross balcony railing. Further right is another white volume with a steep, asymmetrical roofline and three levels of windows with white crisscross balcony railings. The entire building sits on a dark, textured base. The drawing uses a limited color palette of dark grey, white, and red, with black outlines for architectural details.
